

12/22/17

Greenville Practice Welcomes New Provider

Physician Assistant Jennifer Quigley is the newest provider at James D. Bernstein Community Health Center in Greenville.

Ms. Quigley earned her bachelor of arts degree in Hispanic Studies from the College of William & Mary in Williamsburg, VA., and her master's of health sciences from the Duke University Physician Assistants Program in Durham.

She recently completed clinical training at Greene County Health Care (GCHC) in primary care, pediatrics and OB/GYN.

Ms. Quigley is fluent in Spanish. She is a member of the North Carolina Academy of Physician Assistants, the American Academy of Physician Assistants and Physician Assistants for Global Health.

Ms. Quigley is a Greenville resident and enjoys traveling and exploring the outdoors in her free time.

Greene County Health Care Inc. (GCHC) is a community health center with sites in Greene, Pitt and Pamlico counties.

