

Pediatrician joins Pamlico Community Health Center

Michele Parish, M.D., is now practicing pediatric medicine at Pamlico Community Health Center in Bayboro.

Dr. Parish serves patients up to 20 years of age and is accepting new patients. Pamlico Community Health Center (PCHC) is located at 313 Main Street in Bayboro. Dr. Parish's hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. To make an appointment, call 252-745-2070.

Dr. Parish comes to PCHC from Pamlico County Health Department, where she worked as a pediatrician for one year. She practiced pediatric medicine for 20 years at Matthews Children's Clinic in Charlotte, for four years at Kaiser Permanente in Charlotte and for a year at Woodland Pediatrics in Lancaster, S.C. Dr. Parish earned her medical degree from the East Carolina University (ECU) School of Medicine in 1987. She also earned her master's and bachelor's degrees in biology from ECU. Dr. Parish is board certified in pediatrics.

Dr. Parish is treasurer of the Oriental Plantation Home Owners' Association and the U.S. Wayfarer Association. She also serves on the Board of Health and the Mortality Board for Pamlico County.

Dr. Parish lives with her husband Richard Johnson in Oriental. They have two daughters – Alyssa and Emily. In her spare time, Dr. Parish is an avid sailor and reader. She also enjoys gardening, biking, bird watching, travel and West African drumming.

Pamlico Community Health Center is part of Greene County Health Care (GCHC) in Snow Hill. GCHC accepts insurance and offers care on a sliding fee scale for patients who qualify.